TechHub Riga is a non-profit organization dedicated to helping startups grow and succeed in Latvia, where you can:

- Meet likeminded people on startups, IT and tech related issues.
- Share knowledge and stories, best practices (every time there are some experienced speakers).
- Talent and pitch ideas.

TechHub Riga Meetups are supported by Lattelecom (a Latvian telecommunication company) and Altum (a state joint-stock company The Latvian Development Finance Institution).

For example, on the last meeting the special guest was Sean Percival, a partner at 500 Startups and a headline speaker at this year's Silicon Valley Comes to the Baltics conference. Previously S. Percival was the co-founder of Wittlebee, the kids clothing club, and a Vice President of Online Marketing at Myspace.

The Talent Pitch - it's the chance to use 2 minutes to look for co-founders, employees, investors or mentors. To apply to the Talent Pitch one has to send maximum 3 slides, summarizing the startup idea – the problem you're solving, what you can offer and who you are looking for. (Have a crazy idea? This is where you start! Immediate crowd feedback accompanied with possible partners from the other meetup members!)

Monthly Meetups are free of charge and open to everyone who's interested!
